RELATIONS WITH FRANCE.

From the Journal of Commerce of Tuesday Evening. LETTER OF THE DUKE DE BROGLIE TO M. PAGEOT,

Late Charge d'Affairs of France at Washington We have come into possession of the following Letter, being the same which Mr Forsyth, on the 11th of September, allowed the French Charge d'Affairs to read to him, but which he declined taking cognizance of, as not official, and of which he subsequently refused to receive a copy on Translated for the Journal of Commerce. PARIS, 17th June, 1835.

SIR,-There no longer exists on our part any obstacle to the entire accomplishment of the treaty concluded on the 4th of July, 1831, between France and the United States. The project of law relative to the indemities reciprocally stipulated by that treaty, after having successfully passed the two Chambers, has received the royal sanction.

I say on our part; for every thing now depends on the United States: it belongs to them to remove the only obstacle that still subsists. By virtue of a clause inserted in Art. 1st by the Chamber of Deputies, the French Government must defer making the payments agreed upon, until that of the United States shall have explained the true meaning and real purport of divers passages inserted by the President of the Union in his Message, at the opening of the last session of Congress, and at which all France at the first aspect, was justly offended.

The Government having discovered nothing in that clause at variance with its own sentiments, or the course which it had intended to pursue, the project of law, thus amended on the 18th of April by the Chamber of Deputies, was carried on the the 27th to the Chamber of Peers. I herewith annex the expose which accompanied it. That document will show you, in a few words, in what light we consider the respective positions of the two countries. I also annex the report of the committee, presented to the Chamber of Peers, on the 5th of June. You will thereby see how far that House concurred in the opinion of the Chamber of Deputies.

Mr Livingston has left Paris, without waiting for the fote of the Chamber of Peers, leaving Mr Barton as Charge d'Affaires. The letter by which he accredited nim to the French Government, is of the 28th of April .-

You will find a copy of it subjoined.

In a note dated 27th Mr Livingston assigns as the cause of his departure, the silence observed by the French government in relation to a previous note of the 18th, in which hat Minister, agreeably to orders from his Government, demanded the explanation of an expression made use of by Mr. Serrurier in a note he passed to Mr Forsyth at the time he left. That explanation, sir, we will show our-selves very willing to furnish, if it should be asked for again, when we ourselves shall have received those which we have a right to expect.

Annexed are copies of the two notes of the 18th and

On the 25th, Mr Livingston had addressed to me third note of great length, in which, whilst he forbears marked allusion to the amendment introduced by the Chamber of Deputies, he fully enters into its principle and probable consequences, as you may ascertain by reading that paper. As long at the amendment was but a simple project, the initiative of which did not even belong to the Government, I thought proper to abstain from entering into any controversy on this subject with the Minister come a law by the concurrence of the two Chambers and the sanction of the King, it is my duty to justify it

The loss of the bill having occasioned the rethe Government could not definitively adopt that determination until the 8th of April. The brig Le Cuirassier, bearer of new instructions to Mr Serrurier, had moreover met with a long and stormy passage

His note is dated the fifth of June.

Mr McLane states in express terms, in the name of his Government, that the President of the United States will rely on the assurances Mr Serrurier has been instructed to give him, and will wait hereafter with Mr Livingston at Paris, and the President of the United ture. States at Washington, having seemed to regret that the opportunity of this accidental meeting had not been embraced to place again before the Chambers the project of law relative to the Treaty of the 4th of July, it was easy to make them understand, that in acting with that precipitancy, we would not only have departed from all established usages, but compromitted, instead of securing the passage of the law.

The same considerations were very naturally oppos ston, for a special session in the Fall. That Minister must no doubt have urged them with his government, since the latter showed itself entirely convinced of their validity

The new Secretary of State, Mr Forsyth, said in the understand why the convocation of the Chambers had been delayed until the last days of December, instead of the beginning of that month. But that observation falls before ces on which it would be useless to dwell, this meeting of understanding always to be regretted. the Chambers did in reality take place on the 1st of De-

Nothing consequently could prepare the French Government for the language of the Message sent by the President to Congress. We were aware that that Message poses they will receive them. would contain a statement of the transactions connected with the treaty of 4th of July. Mr Forsyth had on the 19th of November given notice of it to Mr Serrurier .--But Mr Forsyth had at the same time informed that Minister, that the President would simply advise Congress to wait for the decision of the Chambers.

What must then have been our astonishment when the Message reached this side of the Atlantic! And could it be expected that the French government, after having fulfilled the double duty of satisfying its own dignity by recalling its Mindouble duty of satisfying its own dignity by recalling its Minister from Washington, and of redeeming the faith of treaties by obtaining from the Chambers the appropriation necessary to the completion of the Convention of the 4th of July, after having tendered the Minister of the United States his passports; could it be expected, I repeat, that the French Government would not wait, before it resumed any communication on the subject with the Government of the Union; and before it renewed with it the intermined relations that the before it renewed with it the interrupted relations, that the latter would come forward and express itself in terms calculated to dispel the unfortunate interpretations to which the Message had given rise.

Such is in fact and in substance the course which the amendment introduced by the Chamber of Deputies has pointed out to the Government; such is the course which the Government intended to have pursued, even if the law had not made it their duty.

Nevertheless it is against this course, so simple, so reason able, that Mr Livingston seems to wish to protest beforehand.

Mr Livingston fully admits in his note of the 27th of April, the right of foreign Governments, to take proper exception to the acts and language of the Government which he repre-

Should the President," he observes, "do an official executive act affecting a foreign power, or use exceptionable language in addressing it, through his Minister, or through theirs; should a law be passed injurious to the dignity of another nation, in all these, and other similar cases, a demand for explanation would be respectfully received, and answered in the manner that justice, and a regard to the dignity of the complaining nation, would require."

But he maintains that these principles, the wisdom of which is evident, are not applicable to an act by which the President, sole representative of the nation towards foreign powers, gives to Congress an account of the situation of foreign relations.

"The utmost freedom," says Mr Livingston,—" the utmost freedom from all restraint in the details into which he is obliged to enter, of international concerns, and of the measures in relation to them, is essential to the proper performance of this important part of his functions. He must exercise them without having continually before him the fear of offending the susceptibility of the powers whose conduct he is obliged to no-"Were any foreign powers," continued Mr Livingston, "permitted to scan the communications of the Executive, their complaints, whether real or affected, would involve the councomplaints, wheth r real or affected, would involve the country in continual controversies; for the right being admitted, it would be a duty to exercise it, by demanding a disavowal of every phrase they might deem offensive, and an explanation of every word to which an improper interpretation could be given. The principle, therefore, has been adopted, that no foreign power has a right to ask for explanations of any thing that the President in the execution of his functions thinks research. President, in the execution of his functions, thinks proper to communicate to Congress, or of any course he may advise them to pursue."

them to pursue."

We cannot, sir, admit such a principle; we cannot admit it, at least without condition or limit, in an absolute, general and peremptory sense.

It does not depend upon a nation from the mere fact of its having adopted such or such a form of Government, to acquire with regard to foreign powers, more rights than it would have had, or to arrogate to itself other rights than those which it would have enjoyed under any other form of government.

Nations are free to choose, without any constraint, the Government they please-precisely for this reaon, and under this condition, that such a choice concerns them exclusively, and that whatever that choice may be, it cannot affect the rights or injure the legitimate interests of other nations.

Now it is the acknowledged right of every Government, when the legal representative, or when the official organ of another Government, expresses himself publicly in reference to it, in language which is deemed offensive, to demand an explanation of it .-Such a right the Constitution of the United States can neither abolish, modify nor restrict. It is an inof a foreign Government. Now that that project has be- ternational right (un droit international.) It suits the people of the United States to divide the power of the Union between a President and a Congress? Be lit so. It suits them to oblige the President to give I shall first recall a few facts.

To state such a doctrine, is to refute it.

However, sir, we do not wish to exaggerate any naturally followed from the very nature and terms of the thing. Mr. Livingston is perfectly right when he engagement, that it referred to no particular and fixed says that the cause which he supports, is, in a generperiod; that was left dependent either upon the differ- al sense, common to all free countries:-That all ent exigencies of our internal situation, or upon the ob- Governments founded on the division of power, and on the publicity of debates, have an interest in repelling, on the part of foreign powers, any interference with the communications which the Prince and his Ministers in constitutional Monarchies, and in republics the magistrates entrusted with the executive power, are called upon to make to the Legisla-And this is the reason, as Mr. Livingston very judiciously observes, that in France and in England, the language of the royal speeches is so reserved in every thing that concerns foreign relations; and it is this same motive, as you will observe, Sir, to the Cabinet of Washington, that has directed the conduct of France in relation to the Message of President Jackson. Such is the motive, which, among tory, and to view the solicitude of that Government many others, has placed the French government in as a testimony in favour of the intentions which had the impossibility of acceding to the wish expressed dictated the Message of the President.

We will simply observe, before we proceed:

States and subsequently by as we might have wished them, they were on the the President, had satisfied it. the simple expression of the personal sentiments of Mr. Livingston. This is an observation which did not Livingston. This is an observation which did not escape his notice.

Livingston's correspondence, the Government of the sent, and waiting for the fulfilment of those engagements U. S. had excited against him such a feeling of irritation, that it would have been out of our power, even consistent with the regard which is its due, it is not afraid supposing that we had considered that correspond- of being accused, nor France which it represents, of being proper, to avail ourselves of a document bearing his signature, to repel in one or the other of the Chambers the amendment under consideration.

planations which have been offered to us.

Mr. Livingston is right in thinking that our objections to the Message of the President are confined to these two points.

1st. The Message impeaches the good faith of his Majesty's Government.

2d. It contains a threat to secure the execution of the treaty by the fear of reprisals.

It is indeed under this double point of view that the Message of President Jackson excited in France the greatest indignation. The Cabinet of Washington will readily admit that if the allegation were true, the indignation would be just. No Government, no people, would for one moment bear without itself either to the direct or indirect imputation of a want of good faith, or the idea of another Government or another people endeavoring to obtain from it through menace, what could only be granted by it to justice. It must equally be admitted that when the impression produced by the appearance of any document is general; when that impression is felt, not only by the whole nation whom the document concerns, but even by foreigners, by uninterested people, by persons the least disposed to take a part in the contest, the very universality of that impression is a sufficient evidence against the general tenor of the document.

If we examine in detail the Message of the President of the United States, (I mean that part of it which relates to the relations between the U. States and France,) it will possibly be found that passing successively from phrase to phrase, none will be met with that cannot bear an interpretation more or less plausible; none, of which, strictly speaking, it cannot be said that it is a simple expose of such or such a fact true in itself, or the assertion of such or such a right which no one contests, or the performance of such or such an obligation imposed on the President by the very nature of his functions- There will certainly be found several in which the idea of impeaching the good faith of the French Government, or of acting upon it through menace or intimidation, is have been taken to present them in an unfavorable light, without making allowance for circumstances which explained them, without paying any regard to considerations which the government of the U. States itself had previously admitted; when we see at the end of this uninterrupted series of allegations, which have the appearance of wrongs, for the sole reason that they are made to rest on isolated and incomplete statements, the unexpected proposition, the extreme proposition to say the least, to seize upon French property, it is impossible at first view, it is even difficult after reflection, to escape the thought that all this part of the Message had been written for the double purpose stated above.

It is not so, however; at least we hope it is not. But to banish entirely such an idea, what would be necessary? Nothing but what is very simple. It P We have placed upon the First Page, the Letter of the Duc de Broglie to M. Pagcot, late Charge d'Affaires of France at Washington, which was read by the latter to Mr Forsyth on the 11th of September, opinion is given in the following words :but which he declined taking cognizance of, as not official, and of which he subsequently refused to receive a copy on the same ground.

The Duc de Broglie's letter did not, and does not, alter the aspect of the controversy at all. It merely repeats the offer to pay the money due us if the President will beg for it in the humble attitude of supplicating forgiveness for having expressed his honest views to Congress upon the subject as he same bound to do by the Constitution.

STENOGRAPHIC GLIMPSES OF CONGRESS.

Washington, January 14, 1836. An interesting and important debate took place in the House, on the subject of West Point Military Academy. her foes better than this institution has been by its friends. wo! to Brother Jonathan, * [THE GIFT OF GOD] in his liberty. hour of need! "Don't you think the law and facts against you, Mr Solicitor?" [Davis] said the late Chief Justice Parker, of Mass. "O, yes, your Honor; but I thought it is the only one I have been able to find in favor of the institution, whose friends are entirely welcome to it; and if they don't accept it, they are quite as welcome as if they had.

Mr Wardwell, of N. Y., was the only man to-day that rallied in the defence of the National Military Academy; he was the entire "forlorn hope;" and he fought as well as if he had been born a cadet, and baptized a cadet, and er things," says the immortal Patch; and some can't, say I. Mr Wardwell did all he could, but nothing that he could not; which was precisely the very, only, thing that was wanted. He was as badly off as Dr Doppet at the siege of Toulon; his furnace was so far from the redoubt, that the shot cooled before he could load; and the fortress of the foe so much beyond the range of his balls, that they fellshort when he fired. His misfortune, as a general, was the fault of the engineers. When Gen. Mann, of N. Y., began to play on the Academy, there was premonitory symptoms of another "rout of Leipsic," which soon fol-Jowed; and when Col. Pierce (of N. H.) joined the pursuit of the retreating foe, they rushed over the bridges of the Pleisse helterskelter! Gen. Wardwell, like the gallant Poniatowski, was heard of no more-(to-day!) while Col. Pierce was arrested in his pursuit by the "orders of the day!" called for by the Chairman of the Committee of Claims, Mr Whittlesey-and no man has better claims

"Why don't the gallant Colonel from N. H. come out oftener," inquired every body, and the ladies too, "when he speaks so well?" This is not "the first time asking;" and I can tell him he will soon get "out-published," unless he grants the prayers of the fair petitioners. It is not a Wrentham prayer, to be rejected; nor a Philadelphia Quaker one, to be quietly laid on the table. Egad, I can tell my friend-if he will allow me this nominating privilege-that the legislative forum is his field; and, as he has put his hand to the plough, he must not look back.

Mr Cambreleng tried to get the Relief Bill under weigh (?) or way, and worked some time at the windlass, but could not heave up the anchor, "unanimous consent; nor even the kedge, "two-thirds" (of the House.)

A short Story, showing how easy it is to be mistaken.-The New Orleans Morning Post alludes to a rumor that Gen. Ripley had been appointed Secretary of War, in place of Mr Cass, who was also said to have received the appointment of Minsster to Spain, and adds :--

"Since the foregoing was in type, we have learned from a friend, arrived this morning, from Baton Rouge, that a letter had been received at Clinton, from Gen. Ripley, announcing the fact of his appointment as Secretary of War. This letter had been seen and read by a gentleman, who communicated the intelligence to our informant."

It would seem that there could be no room for a mistake here—the person who gave the editor his information had seen an individual who had read the letterand yet the whole story from beginning to end was a fabrication.

All Hail Pennsylvania! We have always expressed the fullest confidence that Van Buren Electors in Penasylvania would be chosen by a great majority, notwithstanding the efforts of his enemies to defeat that result by fomenting the local difficulties which existed there in the Democratic Party. The question is now settled beyond doubt. The two divisions of the Party, those who supported Wolfe for Governor, and those who supported Muhlenberg, have agreed to sustain the same ticket for Presidential Electors, which completely destroys the hopes of the opposition.

We were kindly favored, yesterday morning, by a gentleman from New York, (Mr STARK) with the Commercial Advertiser, Journal of Commerce, and Evening Post, of Tuesday evening. The Southern Mail arrived at New York about 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning, but brought nothing South of Philadelphia.

BOSTON ACADEMY PENMANSHIP AND BOOK-KEEPING.

Simmon's Hannum's Kimball's

Corner of Washington and West streets.)

ESSRS, RICHARLSON & STRATTON, having associated themselves in business, for the purpose of instruction in Pennanship, Book Keeping and Arithmetic, beg leave to offer the citizens of thoston and the public generally a prospective of the course pursued by them.

PENMANSHIP.

Messes Richardson & Stratton, are both so well known to the Boston public, as teachers of Penmanship, and have taught that art with so much success in this city, that it will perhaps be unnecessary to say any thing further of their system. to so y any thing turther of their system of instruction, the merits of which are so universally acknowledged. For the information, however, of persons who reside at a distance, and may be desirous of being taught the above branches, they begieve to add, that the system is simple and natural, and will readily remove that stiffness of the arm and flugers which is so embarrassing, and which other professors have heretotore almost entirely failed to accomplish.

BOOK-KEEPING.

In the department of Book Keeping, Messrs. R. & S. have had much personal experience, and have also derived valuable internation from several eminent merchants of this city, which enables them to combine the elementary instructions of which enables them to combine the elementary instructions of the mustet, with the practical improvements of the merchant. They propose to initiate young gentlemen, who are about entering upon Commercial Business, not to teach merchants. They do not pretend to have made any new inventions or discoveries, but will, in all cases follow the most approved precedents of mercantile experience, and give their pupils such practice, as will enable them, when they arrive at the Counting house, to transact business with precision and with a gespatch.

JOHN WILSON & SON.

Corner of Burlington Gardens, London, have supplied their Agent, J. A. DICKSON, 36 Cornell, tormerly Market street with a valuable quantity of the following articles, which have been generally approved—

FASHIONARLE SOAPS.

White Hands.—Atkinson's Almond Soap—made from the supplied of Almond.

White Hands.—Atkinson's Almond Soap—made from the purest Oil of Almonds—uniting all the softening qualities of the Almond with the detergency of the common Atkaline the Almond with the detergency of the common Adams.

Soap.

Chapped Hands.—Camphor Soap.—J. & E. E. A. recommend this Soap as containing a greater quantity of Camphor than has hitterto been considered practicable. It possesses all the cooling and other good qualities of that well known article.

For Family Use.—Atkinson's old brown Windsor Soap.

Ambrosial Soap.—It is made from pure vegetable oil, and is equally mild as the almond, only differing from it in perfume and color—the latter being a light brown, and the perlame a combination of those most generally approved.

The above, with every other new and tashionable Soap and Shaving Cakes, are always ready for exportation, and an allowance is always made on taking one or more dozen.

Atkinson's Concentrated Essence of Lavender—prepared four times the strength of the best Lavender Water, freed from all the empyreums of the spirit, and unsophisticated with the sickly admixture of musk, ambergris, &c. The superiority of this article to Lavender Water is, that it is much more powerful and tragrant—it is also much cheaper, as there is four times more perfume of the Essence for the money, than in the best Lavender water in use.

Misoney Exercicles, Dive—chapees red or grey hair on the head, or whiskers to an anburn or black, so permanent that neither washing, perspiration, nor any other cause can in the vorable terms.

least affect it.

Bear's Grease, for the growth of Hair—This article is procared from the animal in its native climate, it being known to possess more vivilying proper ies when so procured, than when the animal is in a domesticated state. It is of the finest quality, and is sent out without any admixtore, except a little performe to keep it sweet—and for the growth of hair it is no doubt for superior to any thing hitherto known. Also for fressing the hair it is very pleasant and useful—cleaning the end from dandriff, and making the hair heap fields, sett, and end from dandriff, and making the hair beautifully soft and glossy.

Atkinson's Curling Fluid, or Vegetable Hair Oil—for dressing the Hair This article has been very generally patronised for the last twenty years—and is considered an indispensable appendage to the toilet—it is a most excellent article for dressing the hair, making it, however, harsh, soft and glossy as silk—and keeping it in curl in exercise or damp weather.
